A non-destructive algorithm, which eliminates the gray areas at the sides and top or bottom of the image. It can even remove common "flakes" like dust, fingerprints or small scratches. Luminosity and intensity settings, to even out the values within the image. It can even reduce the exposure of the image when it was too light. It also has the ability to change individual color components, like Brightness, Saturation, and Hue, which can also be dragged by the cursor. An Automatic White Balance which eliminates the need to use various WB algorithms. Paint a sketch effect within the image itself. This option adds a discreet outline, a watercolor-like texture, and darkens the areas which are below the lines. The Shadow-Highlight Corrector, which will increase the contrast in the shadow areas while reducing it in the highlight areas. This tool replaces the shadow and highlight areas of the image with those of the original image. Adjust the Levels of both the image and the Background to get a cleaner and more detailed output. The settings of the programs are extensive. If you find anything wrong, you can take a look at the parameters guide which is accessible when you click on the settings tab. What's New Version 1.4.1: Updated to the latest version of Cinema 4D. Ratings Details Review Snippet "Film Noir has served as a solid choice for me for years; it's one of the most useful programs to have in your arsenal if you're looking to manipulate images, be it for web, print, or even film. It's a well-constructed piece of software which works well and takes the idea of black and white films and deconstructs it into something that is user-friendly and intuitive. I regularly use it to treat different images that I take, and I don't regret it one bit." —Zach Lowe Review The version 1.4 of Film Noir provides an extended photo effects that helps to get professional-looking black and white images without the need to learn complex photo manipulation techniques. You have the flexibility to adjust the contrast of the photo to make the image look more beautiful and more attractive as its black and white effect gives it an old and faded look. This kind of photo effects not only keeps the vividness of the colors in the image, it also helps to highlight the important features in a photo
